CUPERTINO, California - Apple (AAPL) - Get Report CEO Steve Jobs has unveiled the highly anticipated tablet - the iPad - that will be available in late March at a range of prices, from $500 to $830. At a press conference in San Francisco on Wednesday, Jobs called Apple the world's #1 mobile device maker, larger in terms of revenue than Nokia (NOK) - Get Report. And in a surprise move, he named AT&T (T) - Get Report - and seemingly not Verizon (VZ) - Get Report - as the iPad's 3G telco partner. The stripped version of the iPad will cost $500 and is only enabled with WiFi connections. 3G versions start at $630 and we're up to $830. 3G pricing does not include an AT&T data service plan, which costs $15 per month or $30 per month (for unlimited use). AT&T shares jumped 3 percent to $26.01 and Apple stock rose 2 percent to $209.75 shortly after the price announcement Wednesday. Jobs has defined the iPad as a new category of devices that can outperform laptops and smartphones by offering web browsing, images, videos, music, games and e-books. Steve Jobs unveils new Apple iPad Regarding battery life, Apple says it will last ten hours between charges. The iPad is half an inch thick and, as presented, lands somewhere between a smartphone and a notebook. To keep power consumption within manageable limits, Apple had to compromise the computing power of the device, says Ashok Kumar, an analyst at Northeast Securities. But Jobs has demonstrated some of the iPad's high-definition video features, which help elevate the device above ereaders like Amazon (AMZN) - Get Report Kindle. The glorified e-reader, however, opens a new chapter in Apple's grand plan to be a modern media hub. For investors, it further reveals Apple's ambition to supplant Comcast (CMCSA) - Get Report, Time Warner Cable (TWC), AT&T (T) - Get Report and Verizon (VZ) - Get Report as a media distributor. This is obviously a bold move, but network services are within Apple's reach. The key development here is the content offerings Apple has made with book and magazine publishers and reportedly TV programmers. Like iTunes to music, Apple's text and video distribution offerings will give the company a higher floor than Amazon's e-book giant Kindle. For Apple, the push for services represents a big bet on the next phase of growth at a time when the company could now reach its peak in hardware sales. If analysts are right, Apple's expansion of its media store model is another link in what could be an all-Apple network. Given its extensive media library and device series, Apple is on the verge of transforming beyond selling to online media to a new role as a network operator. -- Reported by Scott Moritz in New York—Don't Flee Amazon on Apple Tablet Jitters—Apple Tablet Unveiled: A Stored Device—Apple iPad On-Location Review Follow our twitter technology coverage and become a fan on Facebook. 7 Mar 2012 As part of today's iPad event, Apple announced new iPad. Here are the full specifications for the new iPad{(Complete specs for the new iPad), and here's the full press release Apple launches the new iPad Pad Wi-Fi + 4G with 4G LTE 4G built-in next generation has the most comprehensive support for fast networks around the world including HSPA+ and DC-HSDPA, and now both CDMA and GSM iPad users have the ability to easily roam internationally. The world-ready iPad offers high download and upload speeds so webpages load incredibly quickly and email with large attachments can be sent and received easily. Personal Hotspot can be used to share the fast network connection on your iPad with up to 5 other devices using Wi-Fi, Bluetooth or USB. With iOS 5.1, the latest update of the world's most advanced mobile operating system, the new iPad has a number of new features and improvements including: a camera app redesigned with video stabilization technology; the ability to delete photos from Photo Stream; support for dictation in English, French, German and Japanese; and personal hotspot. iOS 5.1 also works seamlessly with iCloud®, a revolutionary set of free cloud services including iTunes® in the cloud, photo and document flow in the cloud, which works seamlessly with iPhone®, iPad, iPod touch®, Mac® or PC to automatically and wirelessly store your content and push it to your devices. When content changes on one of your devices, other devices are automatically updated. The new iPad also supports dictation, another great way to do things using your voice. Instead of typing, tap the microphone icon on the keyboard, then say what you want to say and the new iPad listens. Tap done and iPad converts your words into text. You can use dictation to write messages, take notes, search the web, and more. Dictation also works with third-party apps, so you can update Facebook status, tweet, or write Instagram Instagram Apple has also introduced the iPhoto® app, along with major updates to iMovie® and GarageBand®, completing its suite of iLife® apps for iOS. iLife and the iWork®, Pages®, Keynote® and Numbers® apps have all been updated to take advantage of the new Retina display for iPad. iPhoto includes revolutionary Multi-Touch features so you can use simple gestures to sort hundreds of photos and find your best shots, enhance and retouch your images using fingertip brushes, and share beautiful photo diaries with iCloud. iMovie now gives you the ability to create great Hollywood-style trailers as you record HD videos, and GarageBand introduces Jam Session, an innovative and fun new feature that allows a group of friends to connect wirelessly to play instruments and record music together live on their iOS devices. iPad manages nearly all of the more than 585,000 apps available on the App Store™, including over 200,000 native iPad apps, from a wide range of categories, including books, games, business, news, sports, health, reference, and travel. iTunes Store® brings the world's most popular music, TV and online movie store at your fingertips with a catalog of over 20 million songs, over 90,000 TV episodes, and over 15,000 movies.
